

FREE online learning for students and teachers

In an increasingly globalised and connected world, the ability for young people to relate to and communicate across cultures is critical. Together For Humanity (TFH) is an inclusive, not-for-profit organisation that works with school communities to combat prejudice, teaching students how to deal with differences and supporting teachers to create culturally inclusive classrooms.

Our online learning platform is a FREE interactive resource to help schools build intercultural capability and strengthen inclusion. Developed by experienced teachers and intercultural experts, it features courses for both teachers and students. Brimming with highly engaging, multimedia content, TFH online learning provides authentic learning opportunities that build empathy and broaden perspectives.

For students

Our online learning is highly interactive and fun! Students watch videos, listen to stories, complete quizzes, read, write, reflect, post comments and upload files.

- four courses linked to curriculum across Years 3-10
- age-appropriate courses explore themes such as culture, beliefs, identity, belonging, diversity, assumptions, empathy, justice, citizenship, media biases and more
- teachers can see student posts and provide feedback on student learning
- supplemented with pre and post in-class activities complete with syllabus-linked lesson plans and worksheets

For teachers

A rich, easy-to-use resource packed with practical teaching strategies, ideas for engaging students and tips for reaching out to families.

Professional development courses explore whole-school approaches to diversity education, building cohesion in culturally diverse schools, developing cultural competence in low diversity schools, addressing alienation, enhancing connectedness.

- seven courses linked to Australian Professional Standards for Teachers
- grounded in evidence-based research and includes best practice examples from Australian schools
- applicable in diverse school contexts (primary, secondary, high or low diversity)
